"The essence of Latin Cool"

- Billboard Magazine

"Marta has the unique capacity of turning the bitter history of her native country into sweet music"

- Steve Inskeep, NPR

Already an accomplished performer in her home country, young Colombian singer-songwriter Marta Gómez has caught the attention of critics and audiences of all origins. On her songs, Marta mixes the joy of the Caribbean with the nostalgia of the Andes taking the authenticity of South American indigenous folk music into a hip new realm. With four albums under her belt, this Billboard-Latin-Jazz-nominee is one of the most intriguing new faces of the world music scene today.
