

College of Arts and Sciences	Connecting to the Community
Anthropology	In 2005, UNCW Anthropology professor Midori Albert helped identify remains of Katrina victims. "It's a way to contribute a service no one wants to think about because it's unpleasant," said Midori Albert. "The dead people are just as important as the living." Throughout the year Anthropology faculty, staff and students engage in "hands-on" research in archaeology, biological anthropology and cultural anthropology in their own backyard and around the world. http://www.uncw.edu/ant/news.html
Art and Art History	Along with celebrating our new home in the Cultural Arts Building, the Art and Art History department also mark 2006 - 2007 as UNCW's Year of the Arts. We are holding many special events honoring the arts and artists throughout the year. In fact, Martha Mayer Erlebacher, whose career as an artist spans 35 years joined the campus as a lecturer, artist-in-residence and guest. Her portraits contain many references to Greek mythology and are abundant in allegorical sources. http://www.uncw.edu/art/news.html
Biology and Marine Biology	The Department of Biology and Marine Biology contribute new insights in general biological principles from biological processes to coastal and marine environments. When possible, our department focuses on biological phenomena that impact the quality of life in our region and the nation. http://www.uncw.edu/bio/NewsEventsNewProjects.html
Chemistry and BioChemistry	Student centered research with top-notch faculty and cutting edge instruction lead the way for tomorrow's scientists, physicians and teachers. Research topics include structure of bacterial membranes, testing of biodiesels, effects of global warming, and protein-lipid interactions to name a few. http://www.uncw.edu/chem/
Communication Studies	More important today than ever is the need to connect, understand and to be understood. More importantly, there is a revolutionary discovery that communication is, and always has been, far more central to whatever it means to be a human being than had ever before been supposed. (W. Barnett Pearce, Communication and the Human Condition). http://www.uncw.edu/com/index.html

Computer Science	Our department supports the university's values of diversity, global perspectives, community citizenship, and human integrity. UNCW students are on the cutting edge of technology and work with world class faculty and state of the art networks. http://www.uncw.edu/csc/
Creative Writing	You'll find fiction, poetry and creative nonfiction workshops; screenwriting and playwriting. UNCW Master of Fine Arts students freely mingle with our community and assist other creative talents by volunteering to visit classrooms, clubs, after school programs and anywhere else they may be needed. http://www.uncw.edu/writers/community-action.html
English	The English Department offers a variety of opportunities for writers in the community to share the love of words. The Buckner Lecture Series was established by Charles F. Green, III, to provide funding for us to bring distinguished guest presenters to UNCW and in honor of his friend, Katherine K. Buckner. In addition, English majors volunteer their services through the Writing Center, where they are consultants and tutors. http://www.uncw.edu/english/
Environmental Studies	Be a part of the Painted Bunting Observer Team (PBOT), monitoring the eastern population of the Painted Bunting, which is in decline. UNCW Environmental Studies faculty and students help determine what is causing this and other environmental concerns. http://www.uncw.edu/evs/
Film Studies	Recently UNCW Film Studies students and faculty members put video cameras in the hands of middle school girls. Both groups learned lessons we never expected. This is just one of the many community projects the Film Studies program is involved in with our community. http://www.uncw.edu/filmstudies/
Foreign Languages and Literatures	"Through teaching, service, and research, the faculty of the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures serves as a bridge connecting local, regional, and international concerns. Similarly, we strive to link the literatures and cultures of the past and the emerging global communities of the present and future." http://www.uncw.edu/fil/

Geography and Geology	Spanning the social, physical and biological sciences, our program prepares students for teaching, research and technical careers. With coastal sounds, estuaries, tidal creeks, barrier islands and the Atlantic Ocean right outside our door, our research includes contaminant transport in tidal creeks and quantifying tidal hydrodynamics, as well as assessing the impact of hurricanes and nor'easters on our local beaches and marshes, among other issues. http://www.uncw.edu/earsoci/
Health and Applied Human Sciences	How physically fit are firefighters? Several of our exercise science students found out when they were involved in a three day comprehensive fitness assessment of the New Bern, NC firefighters. Last year the group conducted the same tests on firefighters from Wake Forest. http://www.uncw.edu/hahs/ On Saturday, August 11, 2007, the National Strength and Conditioning Association (NSCA) Certified Strength and Conditioning Specialist Exam will be held. Cut-off date for registration is June 15, 2007 For more information contact Wayland Tseh at tsehw@uncw.edu or 910.962.2484.
History	UNCW history professor Lynn Wood Mollenauer is fascinated by the Affair of the Poisons; so much so, it became the focus of her new book Strange Revelations: Magic, Poisons, and Sacrilege in Louis XIV's France. Our web site features a number of books produced by UNCW historians this year, including tomes by Walt Conser, David La Vere, Will Moore and David Sepkoski. You'll also read about J. R. Hinkson, a UNCW graduate student who is the recipient of the 2007 Cashman Prize of the Historical Society of the Lower Cape Fear for his Master of Arts Thesis "Of Gog and Naboth: The Christian Response to the Panama Canal Treaties of 1977." http://www.uncw.edu/hst/news/news.html
Mathematics and Statistics	Dedicated to scholarship and research, our faculty and students in the Department of Mathematics and Statistics are active inside and outside the classroom. Many UNCW faculty, as well as visiting faculty, offer interesting seminars throughout the year. http://www.uncw.edu/math/news.html

Music	The Music Department web site is a valuable resource and informative tool for our faculty, students, as well as visitors and guests interested in learning more about our department. The various links on the site include admission information, activities of our faculty, our performance calendar, degree programs offered, and several other helpful informative links about our department. We also include information about summer camps. http://appserv02.uncw.edu/caic/events-MUS.asp
Philosophy & Religion	“From Hindu Sacred Music” to “St. Paul and the Roman Empire” to “The Evolution-Creation Struggle” lectures are held throughout the year aimed at stimulating discussion and the mind. Fulfilling the mission of the Philosophy and Religion department these lectures provide an international perspective, as well as featuring community citizenship and the pursuit and communication of knowledge integral to being human. http://www.uncw.edu/par/news-events.html
Physics and Physical Oceanography	Along with quality programs leading to a Bachelor of Science and a Bachelor of Arts, the Department of Physics and Physical Oceanography provide courses designed to stimulate the imagination, increase rational thought, satisfy intellectual curiosity and acquaint students with the laws of nature. In addition, Liping Gan, an experimentalist at UNCW, has discovered a means to measure the life of a pion – the lightest particle made of quark-antiquark pairs. http://www.aip.org/pnu/2007/split/821-2.html Find out what other researchers are discovering at UNCW: http://www.uncw.edu/phy/alumni-facultyresearch.html
Political Science	Last year we set-up an internship program in Washington DC, this year the Department of Political Science held a conference on “Improving Public Policy in NC.” Each were very instrumental in the Blueprint for Impact: Regional Health and Human Services Needs Assessment. http://www.uncw.edu/pls/
Psychology	The UNCW Psychology department is seeking people who would like to be a part of an exciting opportunity to learn about aging. Men and women of all ages, especially those 55 and over are being asked to participate. http://www.uncw.edu/psy/research.html

Social Work	Providing professional-trained social workers for human and social service organizations in the state and region. http://www.uncw.edu/swk/center/
Sociology and Criminal Justice	Looking at human society with a global perspective, the faculty, staff and students of the Department of Sociology and Criminal Justice seek to enhance understanding amongst the multicultural segments of American Society. http://www.uncw.edu/soccri/news.html UNCW, along with the Onslow County Extension program, has designed a program to help military personnel receive a college education at their local community college, Camp Lejeune or even online. http://www.uncw.edu/soccri/DesjardinsandErskine.html
Theatre Program	Patrons and donors recently were treated to a light buffet and a benefit performance of Fuddy Meers, a comic piece by David Lindsey-Abaire. Proceeds from the performance benefit the Doug Swink Memorial Scholarship for Theatre. http://www.uncw.edu/thr/news3for25.html Our slogan is “wave of the future” and we’re excited by what the future holds.
PROFESSIONAL SCHOOLS
Cameron School of Business	The Cameron School of Business assists our community with growth and helps to increase the region’s quality of life. The Center for Business and Economics Services, the Coastal Entrepreneur Council, and the Small Business and Technology Development Center offer workshops, seminars, short courses and other information for citizens within the region. http://www.csb.uncw.edu/centers/index.stm

Watson School of Education	re:search a journey of intellectual inquiry A journal of contributions from UNCW faculty, staff and students directly improving the ways we live and learn. From multi-disciplinary approaches to music's effect on cognitive development in children to the themes of obesity and violence. http://www.uncw.edu/ed/pdfs/ReSearch2006.pdf http://www.uncw.edu/ed/community.html
School of Nursing	"Two words characterize the UNC Wilmington School of Nursing: growth and change." This is according to Dr. Virginia Adams, Dean of the School of Nursing, where our students are offered more than just a curriculum, they are given a distinctive experience. For instance, the UNCW School of Nursing and the Department of Foreign Language worked together and created a unique program where students, accompanied by a faculty member, spend three weeks in Peru to participate in a clinical and cultural immersion experience. http://www.uncw.edu/son/photos/Peru2007/ClinicalCulturalJournal1.htm http://www.uncw.edu/son/welcome.htm
The Graduate School and Research
Graduate Liberal Studies	This unique, integrated program combines traditional values with courses directly in touch with the various dimensions of today's world. This permits our students to deepen their understanding of the global community. Typically, Graduate Liberal Studies (GLS) programs reflect an older, cultural tradition of scholarship, which liberally educates the whole person, providing breadth and depth. The program allows regional leaders such as community college and hospital board members, business and educational administrators, teachers, nurses, environmentalists, those working in the tourist industry and others to consider both individually and together the issues fundamental to improving the quality of life in southeastern North Carolina. http://www.uncw.edu/mals/

Office of Research Services and Sponsored Programs (ORSSP)	Applying for grants can be a tedious, laborious process, the Office of Research Services and Sponsored Programs assist our faculty members to identify funding sources, help develop and submit their proposal and monitor the projects after they receive funding. Our office also makes sure the university is in compliance with human and animal activities, as well as transferring research-derived technology into commercial use. http://www.uncw.edu/orssp/
Office of Technology Transfer	How does academic research and technology transfer to the public sector? The Office of Technology Transfer oversees the process by working closely with the Intellectual Property Committee, faculty and staff. Patents, licensing and copyrights are reviewed with the idea general economic benefit of the coastal regions, as well as the rest of North Carolina, in mind. http://www.uncw.edu/ott/
DIVISIONS
Business Affairs	If you are looking for furniture, computer equipment or just a lamp, or in need of a safety related training program or a parking permit, Business Affairs is the place to go. Our division features monthly surplus sales, safety classes, bicycle registrations and recycling, along with many other services. http://www.uncw.edu/ba/
Information Technology Systems (ITSD)	Aimed at fostering an open dialogue among scholars, students and the public, ITSD looks at the impact information technology has “on the way we think, interact, learn, behave and even how we reshape our basic values.” http://www.uncw.edu/itsd/itsd/techhorizons.htm
Academic Affairs	Academic Affairs: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ supports technology-based instruction and learning both on campus and through distance education ○ encourages intellectual inquiry across disciplines to promote innovation and discovery ○ provides for the economic, social and cultural advancement of the greater Wilmington community through continuing personal and professional education http://www.uncw.edu/aa/

Public Service and Continuing Studies	Narrated by Lou Gossett, Jr., our hour long documentary about the Marines of Montford Point recognizes the first African Americans to enlist in the United States Marine Corps. Over 60 marines were interviewed over a five year period. http://www.uncw.edu/dpscs/news.htm Along with producing quality documentaries, the Division for Public Service and Continuing Studies also features the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute, Youth Programs featuring our stellar MarineQuest program now in its 25th year, CEU and certificate Professional Development programs and Conference Services all designed with the community in mind.
Student Affairs	"Creating Experiences for Life" is the motto of Student Affairs. Our staff is devoted to providing students with personal attention; they are committed to helping develop essential skills to enable a student's personal and academic growth during and beyond the college years. http://www.uncw.edu/stuaff/
University Advancement	Enhancing the image of the university by strengthening relationships through communication and interaction, University Advancement raises funds from the private sector to further the university's mission of excellence in teaching, research and public service. http://www.uncw.edu/uniadv/about-mission.htm
CHANCELLOR'S OFFICE
Chancellor's Office	Whether assisting with Freshman Move-In or welcoming dignitaries to a world premiere documentary, Chancellor DePaolo is there for UNCW faculty, staff, students and the community! Increasing UNCW's participation in the community is always at the forefront. http://www.uncw.edu/chancellor/pdfs/State_of_university_2006.pdf
