Please accept, decline, or accept and revise your awards on SeaNet. Award packages with scholarships/grant aid are subject to cancellation for those students who have not deposited by May 1st. Please be advised that this award is based on full-time enrollment. Should your enrollment status be less than full-time at the end of the drop/add period, an adjustment will be made by our office and a revised award letter will be sent. Aid is subject to change based on availability of funds and/or changes in eligibility. If you have been admitted for Spring 2019, your package reflects the full amount of federal student loans for which you are eligible for the academic year. If you use any of your federal loan amount in the fall at another university, your loan amount at UNCW will be reduced accordingly.

Estimated Direct Cost of Attendance

- Tuition and Fees: $7,048
- Housing and Meals: $10,648
- Books and Supplies: $1,126

Total: $18,822

Direct costs are those typically paid directly to the institution. Some students do live off campus and/or may not have an on-campus meal plan (typically upperclassmen), or may purchase books elsewhere (e.g. on-line or a local bookstore).

Expected Family Contribution (EFC) from FAFSA: 15,000

The EFC is a number that determines the students’ eligibility for federal, state, and institutional need based aid. It does not necessarily equate to the amount you or your family may need to contribute to your education.

Financial Aid Awards

• Awards are final.
  - Packaging parameters based on FAFSA
  - Less than 10% of newly admitted students receive scholarships
  - Income changes – considered January 2019

• Why are awards different at other schools?
  - Different packaging parameters (e.g. FSEOG)
  - Larger endowments (older schools, larger athletic programs)

• Today’s office hours 11am-3pm
  - Get better understanding of your award/aid process
  - Help you determine the difference between awards
  - Discuss financing options that work for you
Financing Options

Any college expenses not covered by financial aid are the responsibility of the student and/or family. When making preparations to cover these expenses, here are options you can consider:

1. Remitting full payment directly to Student Accounts & Cashier Services.

2. Remitting payments via the TealPay monthly payment plan.

3. Borrowing with the most affordable loan you have available to you. Students and their families have the right to use a lender of their own choosing, will not be penalized in any way for exercising such an option and will receive assistance from the campus in processing the loan of the student’s choice.

- Federal Parent Loans (PLUS)
- Private/Non Federal Loans

If you wish to increase (or decrease) a loan that you already have, please complete contact your financial aid counselor.
